PRAISE THE WIRELESS

Business Men Find the System of Value.

Business men and firms, having frequent recourse to the use of the system of wireless telegraphy connecting the islands of the Hawaiian group, are practically a unit in stating that the system is of great value and that their experience teaches them that without it many elements of business would be retarded.

Several men engaged in business or connected with large firms in Honolulu were interviewed yesterday and each expressed himself as being perfectly satisfied with the system—that the service had been as fair and constant as weather conditions would permit, and summing it all up they couldn't see how they could get along without it.

President Wright of the Wilder Steamship Company says that during the last six months the messages of his company have been promptly handled and the service has given perfect satisfaction.

James Gordon Spencer of the Pacific Hardware Company said that although his firm had no occasion for using the system to a large extent, they had found it most convenient, whenever an occasion demanded an early response from a customer on another island, or where a customer had imperative need of a shipment to be sent out on a certain steamer. Whenever his firm had found it necessary to use the wireless system, it had given satisfaction.

Mr. Lantz, of F. A. Schaefer & Co., said that the system was of great value to his firm. For "double rush business," the use of the wireless just struck their requirements. He expressed great satisfaction with the personal attention which Mr. and Mrs. Cross paid to all messages coming and going. "We have no fault to find with the wireless whatsoever," said Mr. Lantz.

W. A. Bowen of Castle & Cooke had only words of praise for the service. "We use the wireless system a great deal," he said. "I think it has a great value to the mercantile community. I will tell you something in point with which I am familiar. I had sent up some estimates to one of our plantations regarding taxes. The directors here thought that my way of doing this was hardly in line with their own ideas, so I sent a wireless message to the addressee to pay no attention whatever to the suggestions I had made and sent by mail. That message arrived there before the steamer, the statement of accounts was sent back here on the Saturday steamer, and the matter was then straightened out in accordance with the desires of the directors. I will say that by having the wireless system here, getting my message through so promptly saved us a confusion of figures."

"Our Mr. Petrie has had occasion to use the wireless a great deal and I believe he finds it quite satisfactory. "On another occasion I made up a statement and sent it to another island correspondent of ours. It related to paying income taxes to the assessor at that locality. I learned later that the Tax Assessor here had given orders to his deputies on the other islands not to collect income taxes there on these very accounts. The manager of the plantation was here and he was afraid the bookkeeper would be confused and I sent a wireless message countermanding the order made in the latter. The letter I received back today."

"I think the wireless a great saving in time, and frequently in money. Of course we hear at times that the system has broken down, but we hear of that at times in connection with cables and telegraphs. Take our telephone system here for instance. At times it is annoying, so annoying at times that we rail at it. But would we give it up just for that? No. When the wireless is working it is a boon and a help to us. We should not give the system an everlasting black-eye, just because it gets out of order sometimes."

Mr. Petrie of Castle & Cooke said that the system had given perfect satisfaction. He knew that the service was likely to get out of gear as did other forms of electric communication, but in the main the company had not been greatly annoyed by these breakages. He cited the case of letters which went to Mahukona from the office of Castle & Cooke. There was but one mail a week to that point. In the meantime many matters came up which made it imperative to get into communication with Mahukona and nearby places and the "wireless" telegraph was then used to advantage.

"We find the system of great value," he concluded.

Mr. Cross, manager of the Inter-Island Wireless system, and inventor of the Cross coherent by which better results have been obtained than during the days when the Marconi patent was used, says he has few complaints from those who make considerable use of it. Among those whom he cited as frequent users and whom he regarded as having considerable faith in the system were Castle & Cooke, Alexander & Baldwin, Schaefer & Co., Brewer & Co., Irwin & Co., Wilder S. S. Co., Japanese Consul, F. W. Macfarlane, W. A. Kinney.

BEHIND A CLOTH MASK

Healani Masquerade to Take Place Tonight.

The foremost social event of the week will be the Healani masquerade ball which will be given at the Moana Hotel this evening. The grand march will begin at 9:30 and the unmasking will occur at 11:30 when the prizes will be awarded for the handsomest costumes, most original and most comical. The prizes are now on exhibition in one of Wichman & Company's display windows.

During the time the masquerade is on no one except in costume or masked will be permitted on the floor. The Queen, Miss Rosie Cunha and her princely consort, Mr. Charles Chillingworth, will be in royal costumes, and attended by a retinue of ladies in waiting and courtiers.

Late cars will leave the hotel at 1:30 a. m., one going out King street direct, and the other going by way of Punahou and up Nuuanu Valley.

Tickets are $2 each, admitting but one person.

The masquerade will be given as a benefit to the Healani Boat and Yacht Club.

The patronesses are Mrs. G. R. Carter, Princess Kawanakoa, Mrs. S. B. Dole, Mrs. Samuel Parker, Mrs. A. T. Atkinson, Mrs. F. M. Hatch, Mrs. H. A. Isenberg, Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, Mrs. H. G. Noonan, Mrs. E. D. Tenney, Mrs. E. S. Cunha, Mrs. H. R. Macfarlane, Mrs. G. C. Beckley, Mrs. J. M. Dowsett, Mrs. C. S. Holloway, Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Mrs. C. L. Crabbe, Mrs. G. P. Wilde, Mrs. F. W. Macfarlane, Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. Cecil Brown, Mrs. A. Fuller, Mrs. J. S. McGrew, Mrs. Theo. F. Lansing, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. W. M. Giffard and Mrs. C. B. Cooper.

The committees are as follows: Committee on Arrangements—F. H. Armstrong, A. L. C. Atkinson, C. L. Crabbe, A. M. Webster, S. A. Walker. Judges to Award Prizes—Mrs. George R. Carter, Princess Kawanakoa, Mrs. H. G. Noonan, Mrs. F. W. Macfarlane, Mrs. C. L. Crabbe.

IOLA BARBER-INGALLS CONCERT

At the Iola Barber-Ingalls concert which is to be given at the Young Hotel next Monday evening under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Werthmueller, the pianist, will play Rachmanoff's Prelude in C sharp minor, "Spring's Awakening" by Sinding, and "On Wings of Song," Schubert-Liszt. Mrs. Ingalls and Mrs. Barton play the Grieg Sonata No. 3, a Bazzini Concerto and some smaller things. Mrs. Kelley-Scott has two charming groups of songs for presentation.

HAKALAU BITES MRS. WEISBARTH

Hakalau was locked up for investigation yesterday. It seems that he was drunk and got into a quarrel with Mrs. Weisbarth. Growing enraged he seized her and bit her lip, nearly severing it from the rest of her face. Deputy Sheriff McGurn was notified by some of her neighbors that Mrs. Weisbarth was in trouble and thus got wind of the affair.

Harbor Improvements Begun.

Work has begun on the new harbor improvements. They started digging a trench across Alakea street below Allen. They intend to put the seawall here for the first of the three new slips. The trench is to be dug down sixteen feet and a concrete wall put in. The material that is being thrown out is a conglomerate mixture of refuse. Bottles, the remains of old shoes and pieces of half decayed wood form a considerable part of the mixture. The smell of the whole is not exactly attar of roses and cannot be healthful to the workmen.

Hard Times Tonight.

Excelsior Lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F., will give a Hard Times Social and Dance tonight at Odd Fellows' Hall. The promoters expect the dancers to come in old and odd clothing and costumes. A lively time is anticipated and it is expected to be well attended. Tickets, admitting lady and escort, are seventy-five cents each.

"I am afraid," said the poet to the editor, "that you don't exactly grasp the depth of the ideas expressed in my blank verse." "Perhaps not," said the editor. "They may be beyond my mental reach." "I think you wrong yourself," said the poet, kindly. "Let me test the point. Here is a line at random: 'She swiftly passed him down the silent way, and in her path a subtle perfume lingered.' There, that doesn't seem confused to you, does it?" "Not at all," replied the editor, briskly, "that's easy. You were simply trying to say that a gasoline automobile went down the pike!"
